Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 08 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very cold with strong winds. Snow showers in the east.

Today:
A frosty start, with sunny spells through the morning, before turning cloudier later. Possible snow showers in the far east but most areas staying dry throughout. Feeling very cold, with strong winds and coastal gales. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tonight:
This evening and tonight will remain dry for most, with some snow showers in the east. Intermittent clear spells with brisk winds, leading to widespread frost. Feeling very cold. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Tuesday:
Another frosty start, but remaining largely dry, with patchy cloud allowing for sunny spells through the day. Possible showers along southern coasts. Winds remaining strong, with coastal gales, feeling cold. Maximum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Wednesday will be cloudy but largely dry. A mix of dry spells and showers Thursday. Continuing to be very cold with brisk easterly winds. Slightly milder Friday, rain moving in.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.